

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What is the Cardiac Education Group (CEG)?

The Cardiac Education Group is a group of board-certified veterinary cardiologists from both academia and private practice that offers independent recommendations for the evaluation and treatment of canine heart disease. The group is committed to providing resources and information on the diagnosis, treatment and management of heart disease and heart failure in dogs, in order to promote early detection and diagnosis with greater accuracy and confidence.

What is the mission of the CEG?

The CEG mission is to offer educational recommendations and resources that will help veterinarians diagnose, treat and manage heart disease and heart failure in dogs, improving the lives of dogs with heart disease.

What does the CEG aim to promote and facilitate?

- Educational activities to increase veterinarians' skills and confidence in diagnosing, treating and managing heart disease and heart failure.
- Tools and resources to help veterinarians detect and diagnose heart disease earlier and with greater accuracy.
- Recommendations to ensure dogs with heart failure receive optimal care and treatments to promote longevity and quality of life.
- On-line resources for veterinarians.
- Collaboration among pet owners and veterinarians pertaining to canine heart health.

Who are the CEG members?

John D. Bonagura, DVM, MS, Diplomate ACVIM
Professor, Veterinary Clinical Sciences, Ohio State University

Whit Church, DVM, Diplomate ACVIM
Arizona Veterinary Specialists, Gilbert, AZ

Sonya Gordon, DVM, DVSc, Diplomate ACVIM
Associate Professor of Cardiology, Texas A&M University

Michael Luethy, DVM, Diplomate ACVIM
Cardiology Pet Referral, LLC

Alan Spier, DVM, PhD, Diplomate ACVIM
Florida Veterinary Specialists, Tampa, FL

Rebecca Stepien, DVM, MS, Diplomate ACVIM
Clinical Professor, School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Wisconsin-Madison